Define default printer (Windows) If a printer has been set as the default printer, it is automatically selected in the print dialog of various programs.

- To set a printer as your default printer, first open the Windows Settings by left-clicking on the Windows icon in the taskbar and selecting the Gear with a left-click. Then left-click Devices.
